

• Pompano bank gets funding: Florida Shores Bancorp, based in Pompano Beach, received $12.8 million from the U.S. Treasury's Small Business Lending Fund, as one of 50 additional community banks that received $767 million in the latest wave of funding, the Treasury Department announced on Wednesday.

The Small Business Lending Fund, part of the Small Business Jobs Act, was created last year to stimulate small business lending by providing capital to qualified community banks at affordable rates. It encourages community banks to increase their lending to small businesses, in turn enabling those businesses to expand and create new jobs.

As an incentive to lending, the rate charged to the bank — no more than 5 percent, initially — drops as the bank increases its small business loans.

Overall, 130 community banks have received more than $1.8 billion in SBLF funding, the Treasury Department said. Among the South Florida banks is Broward Bank of Commerce, based in Fort Lauderdale.
